Negociation with France.

CONTINUED.

No. 45.—NOTE.

The undersigned, his majesty's principal Secretary of State for foreign affairs, has laid before the king the note of his excellency the French ambassador of the 12 instant.

In obeying the commands of his majesty, by returning an official answer to this note, the undersigned feels it necessary for him to do little more than repeat explanations which have been already given on more than one occasion by himself verbally to Gen. Andreossi, and by Lord Whitworth to M. Talleyrand, on the subject of the note, and of the points which appear to be connected with it. He can have no difficulty in assuring the French ambassador, that his majesty has entertained a most sincere desire that the treaty of Amiens might be executed in a full and complete manner; but it has not been possible for him to consider this treaty as having been founded on principles different from those which have been invariably applied to every other antecedent treaty or convention, namely, that they were negociated with reference to the actual state of possession of the different parties, and to the treaties or public engagements by which they were bound at the time of its conclusion; and that if that state of possession, and of engagements was so materially altered by the act of either of the parties as to affect the nature of the compact itself, the other party has a right, according to the law of nations, to interfere for the purpose of obtaining satisfaction or compensation for any essential difference which such acts may have subsequently made in their relative situation, that if there ever was a case to which this principle might be applied with peculiar propriety, it was that of the late treaty of peace; for the negociation was conducted on a basis not merely proposed by his majesty, but specially agreed to, in an official note to the French government, viz. that his majesty should keep a compensation out of his conquests for the important acquisition of territory made by France upon the continent.

That is a sufficient proof that the compact was understood to have been concluded in relation to the then existing state of things; for the measure of his majesty's compensation was to be calculated with reference to the acquisitions of France, at that time; and if the interference of the French government in the general affairs of Europe since that period; if their interposition with respect to Switzerland and Holland, whose independence was guaranteed by them at the time of the conclusion of the treaty of peace; if the acquisitions which have been made by France in various quarters, but particularly those in Italy, have extended the territory, and increased the power of France, his majesty would be warranted, consistently with the spirit of the treaty of peace, in claiming equivalents for these acquisitions, as a counterpoise to the augmentation of the power of France. His majesty, however, anxious to prevent all ground of misunderstanding, and consolidating the general peace of Europe, as far as might be in his power, was willing to have waved the pretensions he might have a right to advance of this nature; and as the other articles of the definitive treaty have been in a course of execution on this part, so he would have been ready to have carried into effect an arrangement conformable to the true intent of the tenth article; the execution of that arrangement, according to its terms, have been rendered impracticable by circumstances which it was not in his majesty's power to controul.—— Whilst his majesty was actuated by these sentiments of moderation and forbearance, and prepared to regulate his conduct in conformity to them, his attention was particularly attracted by the very extraordinary publication of the report of colonel Sebastiani to the first consul. This report contains the most unjustifiable insinuations and charges against his majesty's government; against the officer commanding his majesty's forces in Egypt, and against the British army in that quarter: insinuations and charges wholly destitute of foundation, and such as would have warranted his majesty in demanding satisfaction, which on occasions of this nature, independent powers, in a state of amity, have a right to expect from each other. It discloses, moreover, views in the highest degree injurious to the interests of his majesty's dominions, and directly repugnant to, and utterly inconsistent with the spirit and letter of the treaty of peace concluded between his majesty and the French government. His majesty's ambassador at Paris was accordingly directed to make such a representation to the French government, as his majesty felt to be called for by imputations of the nature above described, by the disclosure of the purposes inconsistent with good faith, and highly injurious to the interests of his people; and as a claim had recently been made by the French government on the subject of the evacuation of Malta, Lord Whitworth was instructed to accompany this representation by a declaration on the part of his majesty, that before he could enter into any further discussions relative to that island, it was expected, that satisfactory explanations should be given upon the various points respecting which his majesty had complained. This representation and his claim, founded on principles incontestably just, and couched in terms the most temperate, appear to have been wholly disregarded by the French government; no satisfaction has been afforded, no explanation whatever has been given; but on the contrary, his majesty's suspicions of the views of the French government with respect to the Turkish empire, have been confirmed and strengthened by subsequent events. Under these circumstances his majesty feels that he has no alternative, and that a just regard to his own honour and to the interests of his people, makes it necessary for him to to declare, that he cannot consent that his troops should evacuate the island of Malta, until substantial security has been provided for those objects which, under the present circumstances, might be materially endangered by their removal.

BRIDGE-TOWN, (Bar.) July 9.

Surrender of Tobago.

THIS important event has been just announced to the public by Royal Salutes from Pilgrim and Charles Fort, his Excellency Lord Seaforth having received official information of the same from Lt. Gen. Grinfield.

Extract of a letter from His Excellency Lieut. Gen. Grinfield to the Right Hon. Lord Seaforth, dated Centaur, Courland Bay, Tobago, July 3, 1803.

I HAVE again the satisfaction of addressing myself to you, and to announce to you the surrender of this Island by Capitulation, with no loss on our side, and very little on that of the French.

Immediately on our landing on the 30th June, the two leading columns pushed into Mount Grace, in sight and within little more than two miles of Fort Scarborough; the Summons was then sent to the French General, who returned answer by offer of capitulation. The terms were finally settled about four in the morning of the 1st, and at eleven we took possession of Fort Scarborough, and the French, consisting, sailors and all, of 228, laid down their arms.

(Signed) W. GRINFIELD.

PRIVATE CORRESPONDENCE.

The surrender, by capitulation took place on the 30th June, and at eleven o'clock on the following day the British flag was hoisted at Fort Scarbro'.

The number of French, including 120 sailors, was 228. The island seems to be in a high state of cultivation, and most abundant crops of Sugar expected. The inhabitants testify no small joy on the occasion.

The Centaur sails on the 5th inst. for Barbadoes; and the Argo sails on the same morning with dispatches for England.

The 2d Bat. Royals and one company of the 7th West India regiment, remain to garrison Tobago.

We are now enabled to add the following particulars to this event, contained in an Extract of a letter dated Head Quarters, Tobago, July 3, 1803.

"WE embarked again the 24th, leaving the 68th and three companies of 3d West India in garrison at St. Lucia. On the 25th we got under way, and saw Tobago on the morning of the 30th ult. A small fort near the Bay of Courland fired a few shots, but was soon silenced by the Venus frigate and a brig of war (the Port Mahon) which had just joined us. Possession was immediately taken of the fort by a party of seamen with cutlasses, who soon substituted the English Jack for the tricoloured flag. The French had only a corporal's party and eight men, one of whom was killed and two wounded. A landing was immediately effected without the smallest opposition, and the whole of the troops and stores were on shore by eight in the evening, when we advanced about four miles into the interior towards Port Scarborough, situated about eight miles from Courland, where we landed. A summons was sent as before, with an offer of reasonable conditions, which was accepted by General Berthier, and the articles of capitulation were signed at four o'clock in the morning of 1st July. At eleven we took quiet possession of the fort and island, the French garrison marching out with the honours of War, &c.

"We have established the Head Quarters at Mr. Balfour's, father-in-law of Col. Campbels, who is likewise here. We were joyfully received by all the inhabitants, who have suffered much from contributions, requisitions, &c. Here we are treated in a very hospitable manner, and live like princes. We expect to sail again on the 5th, on our return to Barbadoes. We have all suffered not a little from heat and fatigue, though continue in good health.

"Among the late arrangements, Lieut. Hazen, 2d Bat. 60th Regt. is appointed Acting Quarter and Barrack Master Gen. here. Brig. Gen. Maitland is still at Trinidad. Brig. Gen. Pickton remains here in command."

In the course of yesterday His Excellency, Lord Seaforth, was pleased to issue the following orders to the garrison at St. Ann's:—

GOVERNOR's ORDERS.

Pilgrim, 8th July, 1803.

PAROLE—TOBAGO.

The governor has again to congratulate the garrison on the success of the army and squadron under the conduct of Lieut. Gen. Grinfield and Commodore Hood, in the acquisition of the island of Tobago, without the loss of a man on the side of the British.

The Commandant will please to order an extra allowance of Rum to each man this afternoon, to enable them to drink the health of their gallant Commander and their brother Soldiers, and their speedy return to head quarters.

(Signed) SEAFORTH.

Upon the arrival of the Armament at Tobago, the Commanders issued the following—

PROCLAMATION.

By their Excellencies Lieut. Gen. Wm. Grinfield and Commodore Samuel Hood, Commanders in Chief of the forces by land and sea, of His Britannic Majesty, in the leeward and windward islands, and the island of Trinidad.

The forces of His Britannic Majesty are come, immediately on the breaking out of the war, to relieve the English inhabitants of Tobago from the galling yoke of France; it is impossible they can so soon forget the mild government of the mother country, to which only it is the design of this Armament to restore them.

It cannot enter into the minds of the British Commanders, that the people of Tobago will take arms with the enemies of their mother country, against their friends, and perhaps their relations; nor can it be believed but they will join the British forces, for their future security, happiness, and prosperity.

Given on board His Majesty's ship Centaur, this 30th day of June, 1803.

BERMUDA, July 9.

There are are a number of capital fast sailing vessels here now fit for privateers, some of which might be sent out in a few days, and commissions will no doubt be issued immediately for the purpose; it is just the season to catch the French homeward bound merchantmen, which pass no great distance from these islands.

The fortifications here are immediately to be put in a proper state of defence, and the gun boats are getting ready.

There was a great press for seamen by the boats of Admiral Duckworth's fleet at Jamaica lately, which took a number of mariners from the merchantmen; a number of stout Americans voluntarily entered.

Monday arrived the brig Thomas, Thorpe, victualler, in 55 days from the Downs. In her came passengers, James C. Esten, esq. Attorney Gen. of these Islands, and capt. Hervey, of the royal fusiliers.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 27.

CABAL DISAPPOINTED.

The election of four Federalists to Congress was certainly a great mortification to the plotting democrats of Virginia, a mortification much enhanced by one of their most boasted and distinguished orators Mr. Brent's being among the number of their defeated candidates. But it is said they were much more mortified at the event of another election, in which democrat was opposed to democrat. We mean the contest between Mr. New and John Taylor of Caroline. It seems that before the rising of the last Congress the ministerialists, confounded by the immense superiority of Federal talents against them, and impressed with the importance of getting a leader somewhat more capable of inspiring confidence, somewhat less prone to "sensibility," & better able to create respect and save his party and himself from exposure than the mewling Mr. Randolph, who since Giles's desertion had saddled himself on them in the character of chief spokesman; casting their eyes around at length resolved in their wisdom and power that John Taylor of Caroline should be the man. Unembarrassed by two much principle, unoppressed by conscientious exactions, specious, intriguing, collected & laborious report gives to John Taylor every quality except courage, which could fit him for the hardy enterprize of conducting a faction in a popular assembly.

In the Virginia Legislature, Giles himself, all turbulence as he is, has frequently yielded him the honor of guiding its licentious course. The party therefore had it much at heart to bring Mr. Taylor into Congress from the district represented by Mr. Anthoney New; but unluckily Mr. New had it also much at heart to continue in possession of his seat as long as his constituents would elect him. An address with seventeen signatures, obtained by the contrivance of Col. Larkin Smith, (the mover of that silly and ill fated resolution for protecting "the enlightened philosophic, benevolent and patriotic republican Thomas Jefferson" from the castigatio of the Federal prints) was presented t Mr. New, highly approving his conduct in Congress, but civily requesting hin to come out of Congress in order to giv him for "the peculiarly calculated talents of Col. John Taylor." Their ingenious arguments on the subject ha the misfortune however, of being muc more convincing to the addressers themselves than to the addressed.

Mr. New in his reply, with no small dexterity, thanked the gentlemen for their approbation of his past conduct, complimented them on their "respectability," but added—"there is yet a name of superior dignity which demands my consideration and obedience. The People. The people have placed me where I now and long have had the honor to stand. Theirs is the right to judge, and to them be the appeal who shall serve them, and in their decision I will as becomes a republican, cheerfully acquiesce; but until that decision shall take place—until a majority of the citizens of the district shall signify their wish that I should retire from the post in which they have placed me, I think it my duty to tender them my best services. Thinking thus (however incorrect the opinion may be) I should ill repay the confidence reposed in me, by giving place to any man." This style in Mr. New was extremely well judged, it was fighting his opponents under the plea of an authority against which no democrat could dare to murmur, and it was turning against them the favorite and deceitful cant of their common cause. The canvassing therefore went on: Taylor, with his usual cunning, affected to keep aloof, working in secret, yet publicly disavowing the acts of his friends, so that in case of defeat he might cover his disgrace (as he has done) under the pretext of his never having been a candidate, and in case of success he too might seem merely to comply with the wish of the people. It was therefore left to the people to express their wish at the election, which they did by giving New a majority of about two to one over Taylor, to the excessive disappointment of his supporters at home, and ministerial junto who had planned his promotion. If any such transaction as this had passed on the Federal side, what a clamour would have been raised by the democrats about the attempt of a lordly few to rule the many. But more than this, we find the Council of Virginia electing Taylor into the Senate of the United States in the room of Gen. Mason, directly after the people had refused to trust him as their representative. This is not noticed, from any apprehension of Taylors powers in such a body as the Senate; for, however he might have "smiled and smiled" and displayed his arts in the lower House, the inferior part he acted when formerly a member of the Senate, confirms the opinion that the institution, in its nature and numbers, is not a suitable theatre for such a character as John Taylor. But we mention his appointment to shew the profligate inconsistency and brazen impudence of the democrats that, while they and their "organ" Duane in the Aurora (the only paper over which Mr. Jefferson acknowledges he has a direct controul) were abusing the Legislature of Massachusetts most outrageously for appointing Mr. Pickering to the Senate, when he had failed as a candidate for the House of Representatives in the very midst of this outcry, they should on their part do the very same thing in Virginia in the case of Mr. Taylor, whom the people had just refused to elect.

We must not omit in conclusion to mention a circumstance, which has added much to the vexation of Taylor's defeat by New. It appears that Mr. New was once a carriage maker, and perhaps as the lordly democrats of Virginia for the most part are known to hate and despise mechanical trades, as much as their oracle Jefferson in his notes on Virginia, Mr. New had repeatedly tried in vain to get into the General Assembly; till at last John Taylor and his connections, merely to get rid of New's importunity, agreed they would send him there for at least one year! Afterwards a violent quarrel breaking out between Frank Corbin, the former member to Congress, and the Taylor interest, the latter determined to prevent Corbin's re-election, and in order to provoke him as much as possible declared they would make a carriage maker (this same Anthony New) turn Corbin out, in which they were indeed powerful enough to succeed. As the maker of New's greatness, Taylor then no doubt considers New's late "gession" peculiarly as unkind and ungrateful; while, reflecting on the deeds of other times for what purpose his present conquerer was once a mere instrument in his hands he and his comrades have to earn the painful lesson of the uncertainty of greatness and those incalculable turns in the wheel of fortune, by which a carriage maker may even be preferred to a Colonel!

A VALUABLE MILL FOR SALE.

THE ſubſcriber wiſhes to ſell his MILL, known by the name of Clifton Mill, within two and an half miles of Dumfries, on the waters of Quantico, which is as conſtant a ſtream as any in this part of the country, and in an exceeding healthy ſituation; very conveniently ſituated to a fine wheat country, not being more than half a mile out of the way, in going to Dumfries, from the main road leading from Fauquier Court-Houſe, Centerville &c. (and by ſome thought not any out of the way at all) and a very good road to it. There are, if the purchaſer chooſes, 227¼ acres of land which may go with mill, (except one acre which will be reſerved) or a ſmaller quantity as may be agreed on. The mill is an over-ſhot, with a wheel of 20 feet 9 inches and 4 feet head, with two pair of Stones. One pair of French burrs of 5 feet, the other of Cologne, with every apparatus neceſſary for carrying on merchant buſineſs to the beſt advantage. The mill houſe is fifty feet long and twenty ſeven feet wide, two ſtories high, with a ſmall kiln for drying corn, together with barn, ſtable, cow houſe and lumber houſe, convenient to the mill. A convenient dwelling houſe, (not quite finiſhed) with a kitchen, meat and corn houſe; the whole of which have been built within 7 years paſt. There are two very thriving young orchards of peach and other fruit trees. It was ſuppoſed, had not the froſt killed the fruit this ſpring, upwards of 100 gallons of brandy might have been made from them. Should the whole of the land be required with the mill, there is another ſmall houſe, kitchen and meat houſe, at a ſhort diſtance from the former.

The ſituation of this property muſt render it a deſirable acquiſition to any perſon inclined to engage in this line of buſineſs, particularly ſo as it is ſituated ſo near tide water. It is deemed unneceſſary to ſay any thing more reſpecting the premiſes, as it is preſumed any perſon inclined to purchaſe would wiſh to ſee them. Nothing would induce me to part with this valuable property, but the preſſing demands againſt me which I am anxious to diſcharge, therefore a great bargain may be expected. Any further information may be known on application to,
